

Q: Can Muslim women who want to offer Ud-hiyah (sacrificial animal offered by non-pilgrims) use a comb to arrange their hair?

A: The basic rule is that if a Muslim wants to offer the sacrifice for oneself or their family, one must not trim the nails or cut the hair once the month of Dhul-Hijjah has started. As for using a comb, there is nothing wrong in this, but one must try to use it gently in a way that does not result in breaking off any hair.

(Part No. 71; Page No. 69)

Source: Islamic Research Journal